

Analog Timepiece With A Plurality of Digital Display Functions

ABSTRACT

An analog timepiece with novel means for the digital display of day of the week and month along with month of the year or other pertinent information. Several or all of the ordinal hour demarcations 1 through 12 being represented by alphanumeric digital display elements. Positioning of these display elements serve a primary role as locators for the analog hour hand and minute hand while simultaneously presenting characters of alpha-numeric data.
